BNS NEWS

THERE'S GOOD NEWS TODAY, the kid had a stroke but he's OK.

Hi everone, I thought i ought to write and tell you what's been happening at this end of the pipeline.

Back in June i had a mini-stroke and spent a week in the hospital, but God Is Good and i came out of it with no loss whatsoever.

Now you'd think that would be enough, but nope there's more.

During May we made arrangements to relocate to another apartment so i no sooner got home when i was faced with moving 10+ years of accumulated junk and stuff....sheesh!

Of course this is when the computer decided to give up and we had to shell out $1,200 smackeroos for a new one.

Then, the doctors decided i needed to have carotid artery surgery lest i have another stroke....so back into the hospital i went for another week.

OK, that's it, no more bad news, but... with all this going on i must admit that i've fallen a bit behind, a =lot= behind actually and it looks like the next packet will be going out in November. I sure hope you have some stuff squirreled away!

So there's the story. i'm back up to speed now and going into hartford to the state library regularly. I hope the delay doesn't cause you any problems. cheerio, paul

The charge for all publishers is;
$3 for the first 10 copies and $1 for each additional 10, plus 10c per copy if xerox, 25c if film, 50c if photograph- plus postage.

The intention is to build up a long list of publishers to whom I can send copy's to on a regular basis to produce a consistent income.

Local Dots Joins the BNS Family

Please join with me in welcoming Karen Ballantine or "Local Dots" as she's known on AOL. Karen is the editor and publisher of TEXAS Historical materials and a regular at the Texas State Archives. I'm sure she would like to hear from all of you so don't hesitate to send her a "email hello" Karen is a joy to correspond with, and, she might just have some material for your next newsletter too!
